SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Of the "Twelve Five Club."—Grand Banquet at the Depot House.

Last evening the second anniversary of the existence of the "Twelve Five Club" was duly celebrated by a grand banquet and program at the Depot House.

The members present and their ladies were: Dr. J. Henry Dye and Mrs. Dr. Little, Rev. David R. Moore and wife, Herbert R. Harrington and wife, Arch A. Krieg and Miss Sadie McCray, J. Bruce Dollison and wife, Prof. R. E. Rayman and wife, M. Harrington and Miss Elizabeth McManigal, A. H. Wilson and wife, Lorenzo D. Vickers and wife, Elmer O. Pettit and wife.

The invited guests were Rev. Dr. Wm. A. Powell, of Athens; Col. W. S. Friesner and wife, and Mrs. F. P. Harrington.

At the eighth hour the royal assemblage convened in the parlors of the hotel, and an hour later repaired to the banquet hall. The decorations were richly adorned with pinks, the flower of the club, and profusely decorated in pink, the club color. At each plate was laid the handsome yearbook of the club, the contents of which covers the meetings, lecture course and banquets of the past two years. The menu served was as follows:

Oysters, Pickles, Cold Ham, Turkey, Devilled Eggs, Chicken Salad, Cream Cheese, Tea Biscuits, Currant Jelly, Napolitan Ice Cream, Fancy Cakes, Citron Pound Cake, Angel Food, Chocolate Cake, Oranges, Apples, Coffee.

After the elegant banquet was over, the program of excellent toasts and music were in order. Toastmaster, Dr. J. Henry Dye.

"Am I King that I should call my own This splendid throne, Or by what reasons, or what right divine, Can I proclaim it mine?"—Longfellow.

Music by Friesner's Orchestra.

"Our Year Book"—H. R. Harrington.

"The First Edition, wholly unrevoked to fill me with ineffable delight, And so I sound of notes—out of sight."—Shakespeare.

"The Fledglings"—L. D. Vickers.

"Beloved age of innocence and smiles When each winged hour some new delight beguiles."—Kirkc White.

Music.

"Woman's Clubs"—A. H. Wilson.

"With hats and clubs? The matter speak, I pray you."—Shakespeare.

"When man wants weight, the woman takes it up, And topples down the scales."—Tennyson.

"The Club Flower"—R. E. Rayman.

"That must be me, the pink, who scent The winds' garden here, My petals stand in beautiful rind Sweet innocence all around I fling And boast a thousand colors."—Goethe.

Music.

"The Platform"—Dr. Wm. A. Powell.

"Grove nods at grove, each ally has a brother, And half the platform just reflects the other."—Pope.

"The Future of the Club"—Rev. D. R. Moore.

"Divines but peep on undiscoversed worlds, And draws the distant landscapes as they please."—Dryden.

After the rendition of the above excellent program the assemblage arose from the table, all clasped hands in a circle, and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

The year book of Club, covering the doings of the two years of the club, is a pleasant reference indeed. In the time covered, almost every important subject of the day has been ably discussed at the meetings, and could but the expression of the members at each meeting be recorded, it would compile a volume that price could not stand the pier of.

Long may the club live and do good in the path they have sought.

Rough and Tumble Fight.

Dr. Veno, who has been holding a series of entertainments in Athens, attempted to eject Chas. Black from the city hall, where the entertainment was being held, for disorderly conduct. Black resisted and a rough and tumble fight ensued, both receiving severe bruises about the face. Newton Ayers, the hall policeman, struck Black over the head repeatedly with a cane while the melee was in progress. Both Veno and Ayers were arrested. Veno pleaded guilty and was fined $5 by Squire Rose. Ayers waived examination and was bound over to court under $200 bond.—Columbus Dispatch.

It's Growing.

We would like to publish some short articles on the subject of pike building in Vinton county. Our sister counties are moving in the matter of pikes and better roads. There is nothing that could be done in the way of improvements which would add more to the business of the county and increase the value of real estate than by making pikes and good roads. The entire work of road improvement is now left to our township trustees. No tax is levied by our commissioners and the two day labor law is repealed. The levies made by the trustees produce the only fund for road work. The streams of water have been pretty thoroughly bridged but why is it necessary to have bridges if the roads are impassable. Many of our roads are so bad six months in the year that you could not get to a bridge if you wanted to cross. Let us hear from those who are posted on pikes and roads—their cost, materials used and everything pertaining thereto. Vinton county must do something or be left in the mud.—McArthur Enquirer.

76 Tactics Practiced in Athens County From the Nelsonville Buckeye.

Another turn of the wheel and the whole phase of the Cable-Falloon contest is changed in the twinkling of an eye.

Fourteen members of the Central Committee certify that they voted for Cable at the meeting of the committee, and that he is still their choice for Senator.

The matter now looks decidedly crooked. It smacks strongly of the work of light-headed manipulation. When the vote for Senator was taken, as if to make preparation for the work on hand, everybody except the members of the committee were ordered out of the room, and the doors locked. Then the work began. Secretary Bean was the only man who kept tally of the vote, and here comes fourteen members of the committee who say they voted for Cable and are willing to make affidavit to that effect.

Explanations are now in order, and it is going to take a good deal of it to straighten things out, and clear the skirts of some of those who did the sleek work.

Another thing that adds to the coloring of crookedness, is the fact that the ballots immediately disappeared from the committee room as the result was announced, while the ballots upon the other votes taken were all left upon the table in the room. Some "thoughtful" individual, fearing that the ballots would get lost, quietly spirited them away, and they have never been heard of from that day to this. Rather peculiar, wasn't it, that these particular ballots, taken behind locked doors, should so suddenly disappear? For ways that are dark, etc., it surpasses anything that has lately occurred in modern politics.

Below will be found the names of the fourteen members who say that they voted for Cable, and that he is still their choice for Senator.

"We, the undersigned members of the Athens County Republican Central Committee, elected on the primary held on the last instant, at the meeting of said committee held at Athens on the 18th inst., we voted in favor of the endorsement of Cable as Athens County's choice for the nomination of State Senator for the 9th-14th Congress, and we hereby authorize him to appoint delegates to the Senatorial convention, favorable to his nomination."

Down at New Plymouth.

Judge Weitzel, of Logan, has purchased seventy-five acres of the farm left by the late Samuel Scott. The Judge got a great bargain as he paid but $10 an acre.

Mr. Lefe Eggleston and daughter, of Bloomingville, were guests of Mr. Seth Eggleston, during the past few days.

Rev. Jones, of Washington, C. H., preached his first sermon at the Presbyterian church, last Sunday. The sermon made a fine impression with the members of the church, and he will probably be retained to fill the vacancy caused by the departure of Rev. Taylor.

Mrs. Melissa Martin has returned home after a pleasant visit with her daughter, near Columbus.

Mr. A. C. Sands, Jr., was down from Logan last week and spent a few days with us. He says he enjoys country eating and his relatives entertained him in the style.

There is no truth in the report that we are soon to have gas and water works.
